Q: PHP foreach - need to implement function to autoupdate with DB I have a foreach loop that is pulling in images from a database. I would like it to autoupdate each time the page is refreshed, is that even possible? foreach($gallery_array as $gallery) { echo " "; } Thanks guys! A: You need to make changes in PHP page too. First, define the session to store previous id : session_start(); $_SESSION['prev_id'] = $row['id']; Next, use the prev_id session as a key to get your row id from database : $row_id = $_SESSION['prev_id']; Next, update the $row_id each time the page is refreshed : $prev_id = $_SESSION['prev_id']; if (isset($_SESSION['prev_id'])) { $prev_id = $_SESSION['prev_id']; $result = mysql_query("SELECT * FROM table WHERE id = '$prev_id'") or die(mysql_error()); $row = mysql_fetch_assoc($result); $_SESSION['prev_id'] = $row['id']; } After this, you can use your $row to update the single row as per your requirement. FYI, this is not the best idea to store the current/previous id in a session. Why don't you just store the current row in a variable and update its value each time the page is loaded. It would have been easier. Honours of the Holy See The titles of honour of the Holy See are a part of the honorary titles given to the Popes of the Catholic Church, such as the Serenissimus of Urbino, the universal honourific of the Vatican City State,

What's New In Adobe Photoshop 2022 (Version 23.0.1)?

Prenatal stress exposure predicts adverse outcomes in the offspring of women with systemic lupus erythematosus. Systemic lupus erythematosus (SLE) is an autoimmune disease with an excess of women with SLE who are pregnant. The effects of maternal stressors on pregnancy outcomes in SLE have not been investigated. Here we hypothesize that stress exposure during pregnancy may modify preterm birth rates and postpartum lupus disease activity in SLE. This study included 535 SLE patients who were enrolled in the Lupus Pregnancy Registry. Information on the demographics, psychosocial stressors and other maternal, obstetric and neonatal complications during pregnancy and postpartum were collected. The rates of preterm birth (17% of pregnancies) and postpartum lupus disease activity (51% of pregnancies) were significantly higher in women with SLE than in the general population (8% of pregnancies, p Q: AS3 Child to parent relationship I have the following code that is causing me problems: package { import flash.display.MovieClip; import flash.events.MouseEvent; import flash.display.Stage; [SWF(width="400",height="300")] public class Adder extends MovieClip { public var currentPosition:Point; public var points:Array; public function Adder(stage:Stage) { currentPosition = new Point(); points = new Array();
